Throughout its history, Kuwait has always been a riddle for historical researchers.

However, here is one touching historical reality. That realism deals with only one question which poses more questions.

The sparks of these questions begin with a query as to what it is for a small geographical piece of land which became a noted international political domain.

Fortunately most of the researchers had depended on outside sources to base their analysis of how Kuwait was initiated, even though those researchers were from Kuwait.

Nevertheless, one is liable to fall into many anomalies due to the massive bundle of gossip the researcher encounter during this research. However, there is no harm in that as long as the action remains part of the research. Noticeably a collection of information

Needless to point out that Kuwait was in existence as a country many centuries ago. One should refer to the Romans archives to note the evidence of the Roman coming to Kuwait centuries ago.

According to China's archive, the Chinese also sailed to Kuwait in the middle of the fifteenth century. The voyage which started from Hong Kong, was organized and led by the Chinese traveler Ma Huan, landed in United Arab Emirates and Kuwait.

From that point, the Kuwaiti people gathered together and started building their nation under the leadership of Al-Sabah Family.

It is extremely important to point out that the leadership of Al-Sabah family were able to create the modern State of Kuwait from this geographical land.

Anyone dealing with Kuwait history is obliged to note down the wise leadership of the Al-Sabah Family of Kuwait.

This advancement in history is called the Power of historical will.
